Café du Soleil's Soleil Salad—mixed greens with strawberries, avocado, feta, figs, almonds and a Champagne vinaigrette

Café du Soleil Expands

The historic Old Town favorite just launched a second shop.

Francophiles in Alexandria's Old Town had reason to celebrate when the beloved tiny gem announced it would open a sister café on Jefferson Street in 2025. Both Café du Soleils sit about a mile from one another and both offer a rapturous mix of simple but delicious French-inspired cuisine, gourmet coffee drinks, local culture, and wine. Mornings and afternoons bring an impressive assemblage of sweet or savory crêpes, croques, upscale toasts, salads, and quiches. Weekend evenings yield film nights, intimate live music, tapas-accompanied wine tastings, and more. CafeDuSoleilVa.com —by E.J.W.

Café du Soleil now has two Alexandria locations.

Vitamins 101: No One-Size-Fits-All

It's true that supplements and vitamins can bring health benefits—but not always. The U.S. Food and Drug Administration regulates them as a subcategory of foods, not medicine, so supplements aren't evaluated for efficacy or safety before going on the market.

So, the best approach to vitamins and supplements is nutritional counseling with a qualified physician, according to Nova Physician Wellness Center principle, Dr. Rohit Suri. Artists at work at The Workhouse Arts Center in Lorton.

Community and family events at The Workhouse Art Center attract all ages.

Artistic Overhaul

A former Fairfax County prison now holds a treasure trove of artistic delights.

A formerly decaying, historic 1910 prison is now home to one of the most vibrant artists' hubs in Northern Virginia. Lorton's Workhouse Arts Center occupies a sprawling, 55-acre campus centered by a grassy courtyard and rectangular complex of brick buildings that hold a learning center, museum, 100-seat theater, brewpub, events space, galleries, and about 80 artist studios. The latter are like a real life Shangri-La for art-loving shoppers.

Porticoed walkways, open halls, and frequent events like Second Saturday Open House & Art Walks invite visitors to explore the stunning wealth of options.

Flameworker Tracey Howard crafts whimsical glass sculptures like an ornamental vase filled with a bouquet of fantastically colorful spring flowers. Former Simpsons animator Cameron Porter carves and assembles arrestingly beautiful abstract shapes or animals from wood. Delightful and intricate woven wall hangings come courtesy of fiber artist Joan Hutten. And that's just the tip of the creative iceberg. WorkhouseArts.org —by E.J.W.
